ACTIVITY-4

Write a Paragraph about how
You celebrated your birthday.

I celebrated my birthday in a simple but genuinely happy ways, surrounded by the people who matter most to me. I celebrated my birthday last Saturday. The day started with a few early wishes that instantly put me in a good mood, followed by spending time at home just relaxing and enjoying the calm. I cut a small cake, laughed over old memories and took way too many photos. That will probably resurface every year now.

Writing this letter to tell you about my recent visit to a historical place in Kutch called Dholavira. A remarkable historical site in Kutch and the experience honestly stayed with me longer than I expected. The vast white land around it, the quiet atmosphere and the remains of the ancient city made me imagine how life must have been there thousands of years ago.

Stone structure, water reservoirs and planned layout of the city made it clear how advanced the Indus Valley Civilization really was. The most impressed me was water management system, which still feels relevant today. Walking through the site felt calm and meaningful, almost like stepping back in time.

The visit not only increased my respect for history but also made me feel proud of the rich heritage of Kutch.

Your friend
Ishak.
